

Contributors

Bradley W. Bateman (PhD, University of Kentucky) is President emeritus of Randolph College. He is the author of Keynes's Uncertain Revolution and co-author (with Roger Backhouse) of Capitalist Revolutionary: John Maynard Keynes. He is also co-editor (with Spencer Banzhof) of Keeping Faith; Losing Faith: Religious Belief and Political Economy.

Ross B. Emmett (PhD, University of Manitoba) is professor of economic thought in the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, Arizona State University. He is also the Director of the School's Center for the Study of Economic Liberty. Winner of 1992 Joseph Dorfman Dissertation for the best dissertation in the history of economics, he has gone on to be a well-known scholar of Chicago Economics, especially the work of Frank H. Knight. Between 2021 and 2023, he served as President of the History of Economics Society.

Erik W. Matson (PhD, George Mason University) is a senior research fellow at the Mercatus Center and the deputy director of the Adam Smith Program at George Mason University. He also serves as a lecturer in social research in the Busch School of Business at Catholic University. He was the recipient of the Acton Institute's 2022 Novak Award.

Stephen Meardon (PhD, Duke University) is associate professor of economics at Bowdoin University.

Paul Oslington (PhD, University of Sydney; DTheol, University of Divinity) is professor of economics and theology at Alphacrucis University College. He writes on international trade, labor markets, and the history of economics.

Dylan Pahman is a research fellow at the Acton Institute for the Study of Religion & Liberty, where he serves as executive editor of the Journal of Markets & Morality. He is also a PhD candidate in the Institute for Theology and Liberal Arts at St. Mary's University, Twickenham, London, and he is author of the book Foundations of a Free & Virtuous Society (Acton 2017), an introductory primer on the integration of Christian theological anthropology and modern economic science.

Alexander William Salter (PhD in Economics, George Mason University) is the Georgie G. Snyder Associate Professor of Economics in the Rawls College of Business at Texas Tech University and the Comparative Economics Research Fellow at TTU's Free Market Institute. His most recent academic books are The Medieval Constitution of Liberty: Political Foundations of Liberalism in the West and The Political Economy of Distributism: Property, Liberty, and the Common Good.

Richard Turnbull (PhD, University of Durham) is the Director of the Centre for Enterprise, Markets and Ethics, Oxford and visiting Professor at St. Mary's University, Twickenham. He teaches and publishes across several areas of theology and history especially in relation to business and enterprise. He has published an acclaimed biography of the nineteenth-century evangelical social reformer, Lord Shaftesbury.

Wilson Whitener earned a Master's in Agricultural and Applied Economics from Texas Tech University, where he served as a research assistant at the Free Market Institute until Spring 2023.